THIS DOCUMENT CONTAINS INFORMATION AFFECTING THE NATIONAL DEFENSE OF THE UNITED STATES, WITHIN THE MEANING OF TITLE 18, SECTIONS 793 AND 794, OF THE U.S. CODE, AS AMENDED. ITS TRANSMISSION OR REVELATION OF ITS CONTENTS TO OR RECEIPT BY AN UNAUTHORIZED PERSON IS PROHIBITED BY LAW. THE REPRODUCTION OF THIS FORM IS PROHIBITED.

THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

1. In late December 1951 the chief station of the Supply and Service Command of the headquarters of the Armed Forces of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (DRV) was moved from Dong Dang (106-41, 21-56) to Peichien.¹ About 15,000 militiamen and civilian laborers mobilized for the task took five days to move all the weapons, munitions and other military supplies from the six warehouses at Dong Dang.
2. The vacated warehouses at Dong Dang were occupied by the chief supply station of the DRV Interzone III, which moved from Tangmei (易梅).²

Comment. The move to Peichien is believed to have been made because supplies to front line troops can be shipped more quickly from Peichien, and supplies from China can be shipped directly to Peichien after they enter the DRV at Chennankuan (106-41, 21-58).

1. Comment. Bac Kan is probably the place meant.
2. Comment. These characters are rendered "Dang Mai" in Vietnamese.
